Renewal

Church Family,

Happy New Year! As we step into 2026 together, my heart is full of gratitude and expectation. It's a joy to walk this journey as one church family, trusting God for all He will do in us and through us in the year ahead.

I recently came across a humorous quote: "My New Year's resolution is to stop hanging out with people who ask me about my New Year's resolutions." Maybe that makes you smile—and maybe resolutions aren't your thing. They usually aren't mine either. But each year, I do make space to seek the Lord and ask Him important questions: How do You want me to live differently? Where are You inviting me to grow? How can my life more fully reflect Your purposes?

My prayer for all of us is that we would seek God's will—both individually and as a church family—as we enter this new year. As you read through this issue of The Current, I encourage you to ask the Lord how He might be calling you to engage more deeply in the life and ministries of our church. Every step of obedience, every act of service, and every yes to Jesus strengthens our shared witness and deepens our discipleship.

God's Word reminds us of His heart for renewal: "And He who was seated on the throne said, 'Behold, I am making all things new'" (Revelation 21:5). With faith and hope, I look forward to the new things God will do among us in 2026.

With love and expectation,
Paster Tung

Finding Connections, Accountability, and Quiet Time

Joe Avery

Amid my life's most difficult season, I came to a saving faith in the person and work of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. My passion for the Lord and desire for biblical knowledge, understanding, and wisdom caused a pleasantly insatiable craving to draw nearer to Him; however, I was not equipped with the necessary skills to efficiently and purposefully learn about Jesus, His Scriptures, and practical application.

Fortunately, Every Man A Warrior (EMAW) provides me the framework to learn and hone skills that enable me to interpret and understand God's Word. One of the best features of EMAW is the fellowship with other like-minded men. I have formed several strong, deep-rooted connections with outstanding men of God who offer encouragement, accountability, and brotherly love. Another gift in this journey has been learning the rhythm of quiet time—a simple, structured way of sitting with God's Word. It invites us to slow down, explore Scripture in its original setting, grasp its truth, and listen for how the Lord is shaping our hearts and guiding us daily.

Recently, my EMAW group advanced to Book Three of the four-book curriculum, a milestone otherwise unachievable without the Lord's transformative work in each of our hearts—all the glory and honor and power be to Jesus! Before committing to EMAW, I couldn't recite a single verse by memory. After beginning EMAW in Book One, I have memorized 21 verses! Throughout daily encounters in the world, I am confident and ready to recite those Scriptures to advance God's kingdom and as a weapon against the enemy. I pray more men will join EMAW.

IGNITE HOPE

January is recognized as Sanctity of Human Life Month—a time when churches and individuals actively remember, honor, and stand for the God-given value of every human life, reaffirming our calling to protect Life.

As one of LC3's ministries, Ignite Hope is committed to safeguarding life, building strong connections with ministry support networks, and offering practical and spiritual help to individuals and families.

We gather for prayer on the second Saturday of each month, immediately following the evening service, in the prayer room. You are warmly invited to join us as we seek the Lord together and engage in the work of upholding and preserving life in the name of Him who is Life—Jesus.

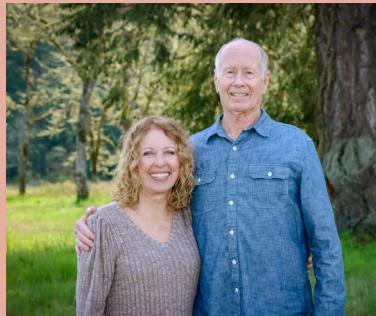

To learn more about our ministry, please contact IgniteHope@LC3.com or visit our Care & Support page at LC3.com/Care.

Finding a New Home

Dave & Cathi Tague

Having raised our family in warm, sunny Mission Viejo, California, we never imagined leaving the place we called home for over 40 years. Our church there had been our family—where we grew in faith, served in ministry, and built lifelong friendships. But about eight years ago, God began stirring our hearts, calling us to Washington to be near our three daughters, their husbands, and our 16 grandchildren.

Leaving was bittersweet. Starting over—finding a new church, new friends, and a new rhythm of life—wasn’t something we expected to do in this season. Yet, as He always does, God had something beautiful in store.

Attending LC3 was a natural step since our oldest daughter, Abby, and her husband, Peter, and their nine children were already part of this loving church family. From our very first Sunday, we sensed the presence of God’s Spirit and the warmth of His people. We quickly joined a Community Group and have found deep friendship and genuine fellowship—people who feel like family.

Dave now serves with Food Bank pickup and on the security team, while Cathi helps in the preschool ministry and runs the AWANA store. Together we are continually blessed by the heartfelt worship and the solid, Bible-centered teaching from Pastor Tung and the pastoral team.

We’ve learned firsthand that the Church truly is God’s gift—where His people gather to worship, grow, pray, and serve together. We’re deeply grateful to live near our children and grandchildren and to have found a new home here at LC3—a place where God’s love feels like family.

Spiritual Investment Matters

Dustin Kinney &
Neilia Moliassa

At LC3, we are blessed to see God's faithfulness woven through the lives of our families—and sometimes that faithfulness becomes beautifully visible in the next generation.

Dustin Kinney, age 18, grew up in our church, attending the elementary ministry when it was still called Promise Land. As a kid, he watched his mom, Neilia, faithfully serve—helping children learn Bible stories, memorize Scripture, and see Jesus' love lived out each week.

Today, Dustin is following in her footsteps. Now a young adult, he serves regularly in our elementary ministry, leading kids with joy, patience, and enthusiasm. This past summer he even stepped into character as Joseph in Egypt, helping children understand God's faithfulness through Joseph's story. Dustin says his heart for serving comes from watching his mom's example—and now he gets to pass that same love for God's Word to the next generation.

Recently he shared this experience: "One weekend I was leading the kids' large-group lesson in Elementary. We had over 50 kids that service, and most of the helpers in the room were high schoolers and middle schoolers. It made me realize how well our church has disciplined the younger generations. They aren't serving because they have to—they serve because they want to. It's amazing to see how much God is moving in our church!"

Dustin's story is a reminder that spiritual investment matters. When parents and adults step into ministry, kids notice. They remember. And often, they grow up to do the very same.

As we continue to pour into our children, we invite parents and adults to join us in shaping the next generation of believers. Your influence—your presence—could be the spark that encourages a child to walk faithfully with Jesus for a lifetime.

God is at work in our church family, from one generation to the next. Let's continue the legacy together.

PERSPECTIVES USA

If you've been around LC3, you know we take Jesus' call to make disciples of all peoples to heart. That's why we're thrilled to host Perspectives this spring for students of all ages from churches across the Puget Sound.

Perspectives is a 15-lesson discipleship course rooted in Scripture and taught through four lenses—Biblical, Historical, Cultural, and Strategic. Each class includes multilingual worship, engaging activities, and teaching from experienced kingdom leaders, including Tyler Pease, Eric VBS from The Passion Center in Malawi, LC3's own Joshua, and many other national and international presenters.

Come discover God's heart for the nations from Genesis to Revelation. Learn how He is moving among all peoples—near and far—and how you can join His story. Perspectives has equipped and inspired hundreds of thousands for more than 45 years. We invite you to be part of it!

Shaped by Perspectives:

Lura Anderson

Recently Pastor Tung taught about Jonah, a prophet who thought he could run away and hide from God. I have heard the story of Jonah and the whale all my life, along with the story of Daniel in the lion's den, and David slinging a stone into the forehead of the giant. These are amazing stories of real people that God used to accomplish great things. But it wasn't until I took Perspectives for the first time that I realized the purpose of these adventures was more than keeping kids enthralled in Sunday School. The real reason God showed His power was so that His name would be known among the nations. Consistently throughout Scripture God is working to reveal His name, character, and love to all the peoples of the world. And He is still doing just that—to all 8.1 billion people on this planet. And of those people, 3.5 billion are unreached with the Gospel, with no access whatsoever to the Good News.

"Hudson Taylor's words, 'For what service I was accepted I knew not; but a deep consciousness that I was no longer my own took possession of me, which has never since been effaced,' really resonate with me. It seems that was the start of Taylor's journey into glorifying God. I feel mostly the same: I know not what service God has for me, but I have head knowledge at this point that my life is not my own and I desire to use it for His glory, although I daily struggle to convince my flesh of this. I desire to trust God and go on an adventure with Him as Taylor did, but even that trust is a work in progress. Praise God for His grace and patience with a slow learner like me! And praise God for courses like Perspectives that is helping me along."

It's been over 9 years since I wrote these words. Since then, I've watched God lead me into one unexpected adventure after another—serving with LC3's Global Local Outreach team, launching ESL classes in Muslim homes and at LC3, building friendships with Muslim women, learning Arabic, helping resettle Afghan families, walking alongside persecuted believers, and sharing the Gospel with women across the Middle East through technology. Most recently, He's opened the door to serve those detained at the ICE Processing Center in Tacoma. Perspectives was the springboard for all this fruit, and I look forward with joy to whatever kingdom work He has ahead. "If I am to live in the flesh, that means fruitful labor for me..." (Philippians 1:22).

From Whipping to Salvation

Over the summer, one of our Mission Teams held our very first one-day VBS outreach in Mangochi—at Hope Community Church, our church plant in a predominately Muslim city. While the team was acting out a Bible story, a disturbance broke out. A young Muslim man had been sent by his parents to retrieve his three sisters who were attending the VBS. He forced his way through the crowd, grabbed the youngest girl, and began dragging her away—striking her face and legs with a thorny stick. Passion staff and local deacons quickly stepped in to protect her and calm the situation.

Even as the outreach continued, the deacons stayed with the young man, gently talking with him until he agreed to return to the church and observe the rest of the program. When the crowd later divided into small groups, this young man—Cassim—chose to join a circle of other young men. He listened closely as the gospel was shared. When the invitation to receive Christ was given, Cassim raised his hand along with the others. All of them met with Pastor Edwin afterward, who encouraged them to come to church on Sunday. Though Cassim has not yet returned—likely because he was only visiting family—pastor and deacons continue to pray for him by name.

This moment highlights the challenges Hope CC and our other church plants face in predominately Muslim regions, where every follow-up must be done with care for the safety of new believers and seekers. Recently, two members who began home Bible studies in their neighborhoods were evicted after their landlords learned what was happening.

Please continue praying for Hope CC and our partner churches as they walk through persecution and spiritual opposition—and pray that the seeds planted will bear lasting fruit. To God be the glory!

Rescuing and Celebrating at The Chikondi Infant Home

Meet the newest addition to the Passion family: Chisomo, which means “Grace” in Chewa.

She was named by the nurses at the hospital when this beautiful baby was found abandoned in a toilet and rescued by someone who heard her crying. She was brought to the hospital, where the staff reached out to Passion Center at first for formula and diapers. It was when our nurse took those items to the hospital she was made aware that the Zomba government workers wanted to ask us to take her into the Chikondi Infant Home when the hospital discharged her. What an honor to be trusted by city officials for such a role!

Chisomo is just a few weeks old, but we can't wait to watch her grow up surrounded by love. We thank God for the events that led to her rescue. She makes the 11th infant at Chikondi, and we can see we need a larger place and one that is also our own. Praise God that He is allowing us to join Him in rescuing Chisomo and hopefully many more through the Chikodi Infant Home.

Unexpected Friendships

Wayne Schock

My journey into ministry at the Tacoma ICE Detention Center began this past April with simple window visits. A friend from English with Friends (an LC3 ministry) told me about several Chinese men who spoke little English and had no visitors. She handed me a list of names, helped me navigate the process, and soon I found myself speaking with a young man—Chen—through a thick pane of glass and a telephone. He had been detained for eight months without a single visitor. At first, he was cautious and unsure why I wanted to meet him. All I could offer was friendship, conversation in my rusty Mandarin, and, at the end of each visit, a brief prayer.

One week, Chen asked if I would visit his cellmate, Bai. Soon I found myself meeting both men weekly—listening to their stories, praying with them, and sharing the Gospel using Chinese Scriptures I had memorized 40 years ago when I first lived in Taiwan. God brought those verses back to mind word-for-word (we are not allowed to bring items to the window visits). Eventually, Bai asked Jesus into his life, and Chen began asking deeper questions about faith.

As the weeks went on, relationships deepened. My granddaughter joined one visit, and her presence touched Chen profoundly, opening the door for more spiritual conversations. Through their Saturday church services at the DC, Chen and Bai introduced me to another believer, Lin, and by mid-summer I was discipling all three men.

In August, I began serving inside the Saturday volunteer church ministry. Now I sit with groups of Chinese men for Discovery Bible Study, joining volunteers of many languages as we witness God transform lives. Just this past weekend, 36 men and women were baptized, representing diverse nations and stories.

Many in the DC remain alone, hungry for the love of Christ and the salvation found only in Him. Some will return to the U.S., others to their home countries—but each carries the potential to share powerful testimonies of God's grace.

Our Mission

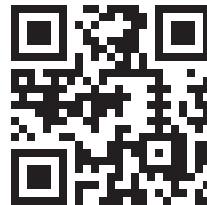

Our mission as a church is to advance God's Kingdom by making fully devoted followers of Christ in Lakewood, Lacey, and the world. This mission comes out of the Great Commission in Matthew 28:18-20 where Jesus commanded His followers to make disciples of all nations. And that is what a fully devoted follower is: a disciple. Every ministry at LC3 is geared towards making and developing disciples.
