Daniel 12:1–3

“At that time Michael, the great prince who protects your people, shall arise. There will be a time of distress such as has not happened from the beginning of nations until then. But at that time your people—everyone whose name is found written in the book—will be delivered.

² Multitudes who sleep in the dust of the earth will awake: some to everlasting life, others to shame and everlasting contempt. ³ Those who are wise^[a] will shine like the brightness of the heavens, and those who lead many to righteousness, like the stars for ever and ever.”

MICHAEL STANDS UP!

As I behold the great movements of heaven, I do not see God idle or withdrawn. The Bible reveals Him not in a state of silence or solitude, but in the midst of a living, active kingdom—surrounded by ten thousand times ten thousand and thousands of thousands of holy intelligences, all waiting to carry out His will. Yet, in all the majesty of that divine assembly, it is not the grandeur of galaxies or the order of angels that holds His deepest attention—it is this speck of a world, the object of His redeeming love. It is here, in the souls for whom Christ died, that the interest of all heaven is centered.

Even now, the risen Christ—Michael, our Prince—has stood up. He stands not merely in protest of evil, but in defense of His people. The same Jesus who rose from the tomb, victorious over death, now intercedes as our Advocate and Defender. He bends from His throne to hear the cry of the oppressed, and to every sincere prayer, He answers, “Here am I.” In our trials, in our afflictions, and in every temptation, He does not leave us alone. The angel of His presence—Michael Himself—draws near to deliver.

We are living in the time when Michael is no longer seated, but standing. He stands because the final conflict is upon us. He stands to shield, to save, and soon to return in glory. Let every believer take courage: the Risen One has not forgotten us. Heaven is not silent. Our Deliverer stands.

Ellen G. White -Paraphrased

Blanche McAllister- Dykes

Born to James and Mary McAllister in Fayetteville, North Carolina, Blanche was endowed with the divine gift of music at the tender age of four. Her father, recognizing this early calling, began vocal training with her while accompanying her on piano. Just a year later, while waiting at a bus stop with her mother, a blind man—divinely inspired—prophesied that Blanche would one day be a vessel of blessing to the Body of Christ and sing before nations. From that moment on, Blanche embraced her calling, beginning her journey by ministering through song at church, allowing the Lord to shape and use her gift for His glory.

After graduating from high school, Blanche enrolled at Fayetteville State University. During her collegiate years, she expanded her artistic repertoire, delving into the realms of theater and drama—further affirming her creative versatility.

In 2002, God opened a pivotal door in her ministry, leading Blanche to begin singing with gospel luminary Donald Lawrence. Her distinctive, smooth, and jazz-infused voice is featured on Donald Lawrence & the Tri-City Singers: The Finale, where she delivers a moving declaration of divine power in “These Nails,” and later joins Sheri Jones-Moffet and LeJuene Thompson on the rousing anthem “God’s Favor.” In a tribute to the legendary Andraé Crouch, Blanche takes the lead on “Right Now,” featured on Donald Lawrence & Company: I Speak Life. She can also be heard ministering on Donald Lawrence & Company: The Law of Confession, lending her voice to “I’ve Got Something,” “Citizens,” and the title track, “Law of Confession.” Additionally, she has contributed to projects by Christopher Gray (Heaven), Bishop L. Spenser Smith & Testament, and the Alabama A&M Gospel Choir. Blanche’s vocal artistry has graced the background of performances by a litany of gospel and secular legends, including Karen Clark-Sheard, The Clark Sisters, Darwin Hobbs, Joanne Rosario, Hezekiah Walker, Chaka Khan, Patti LaBelle, Stephanie Mills, and Martha Munizzi. She has also shared the stage with renowned artists such as Vanessa Bell Armstrong and Mary Mary. Her ministry has truly transcended borders, fulfilling the prophecy spoken over her life. In 2003, Blanche had the profound honor of accompanying the late Billy Preston in a performance at The Vatican in Rome.

On February 10, 2007, Blanche was joined in holy matrimony to the love of her life, Mr. Andru Dykes. Today, she continues to walk in her anointing as a psalmist—one with a heart of worship and a unique, spirit-filled style that ministers powerfully across generations and cultures.

In 2018, she released her highly anticipated debut solo project, featuring inspired singles such as “Always Bless Your Name” and “Words,” the latter of which was subsequently recorded by Donald Lawrence’s Music & Arts Conference Live in London. Beyond her vocal gift, Blanche is also a talented actress, having appeared in David Payton’s A Good Man Is Hard to Find, Donald Lawrence’s Bible Stories, and Garrett Davis’ If Loving You Is Wrong. Blanche is a devoted member of The Brook Church in Columbia, South Carolina, under the spiritual leadership of Bishop Simeon Moultrie.
