MISSIONS HIGHLIGHT

Ben and Kimberly Benedict | Southeast Asia

Since 2016, the Benedicts have served in a remote village in Southeast Asia, strengthening the local church through New Hope Karnali Ministries, the parent organization. Operating in the most underdeveloped region of the country, where poverty is widespread and most people rely on subsistence farming, the Benedicts work amidst the dominant religions of Hinduism and Buddhism, facing opposition to Christianity from many villages. Their main goal is to equip local believers to share the Gospel with their fellow countrymen. To achieve this, they have implemented various programs such as pastor training, church discipleship, and outreach initiatives. Among these programs is the New Hope Discipleship Program, an intensive course lasting three months, during which ten young believers reside on campus. Some students face opposition from their villages and families. Your prayers for these young individuals and their mission are appreciated. Additionally, rejoice with the Benedicts as their visas have been approved. They write, "We are thankful for the steadfastness of God. And we are thankful for the ways in which He has used your faithfulness to demonstrate His." To receive a copy of their correspondence with SCBC, email Tom Benson at tomb@scbc.cc.
