GRACE

TABERNACLE

MARK 1:40-45

Jesus responded not with repulsion but with compassion. “I am willing,” He said, “Be clean!” as He reached out and touched the man (v. 41). Just like the friendship extended to Letty by a coworker, Jesus’ gesture was one of understanding all that the man had suffered and of acceptance despite it all. We may walk through life hiding what we feel separates us from “normal, beautiful, educated people.” May we allow Jesus to touch and redeem these things that cause us shame. May we know that as God’s children, we’re accepted and loved.

Dear Jesus, thank You
for reaching out to me.

In the bodily resurrection; eternal life for the believer, and eternal punishment for the unbeliever.
(John 5:28)
