Activity

This week, we reviewed what a worldview is and compared a worldview to a map. With your family, review what a worldview is. Ask them if they can remember how a worldview is similar to a map. If they can't do this, explain what you reviewed today!

Today we also talked about life and what makes things alive. With your family, write down a list of all the living things you have in your house.

What do these things have in common?

Every living thing has information inside of it that tells it how to grow and what to do. Isn't that incredible? Spend time as a family thanking God for making living things and giving them the information they need.
