Sermon Series

Sheesh: Cultivating Wonder in a Monochrome World
January 11 - February 15

“Sheesh” is more than an expression of surprise—it’s a recognition that life is filled with moments that take our breath away, if only we notice them. This series challenges us to break free from the autopilot of modern life and cultivate a heart that marvels at God’s presence in both the extraordinary and the ordinary. Through six transformative weeks, we’ll explore ancient spiritual practices that awaken wonder. Join us as we trade our tired, monochrome existence for a life painted with wonder, meaning, and divine surprise.

Sermon Reflection and Thoughts on the New Year

Words for Meditation: “Awe is not meant to be a fleeting feeling; when the Spirit moves among us, wonder becomes belonging—and the space between us becomes holy ground.”
– Rev. Mark Feldmeir

Today’s Questions

- Can you recall a time when you experienced a “sheesh” moment with others, when something in the space between you felt alive, meaningful, or holy? What do you think made that moment possible?
- What might it look like for you (or for us as a community) to make more room for that kind of shared presence this week—through gathering, lingering, listening, or showing up when it would be easier to stay apart?

Today’s Takeaways

1. Choose _____ over _____. Show up—to worship, to the table, to one another—trusting that awe often meets us when we dare to be with others.
2. Practice _____. Slow down long enough to listen, notice, and stay—because wonder rarely arrives in a hurry.
3. Share _____ together. Eat with someone. Sit with someone in their need. Serve alongside someone. Believe that God still turns simple moments into holy ones.
