Competing Spectacles: Treasuring Christ in the Media Age

by Tony Reinke

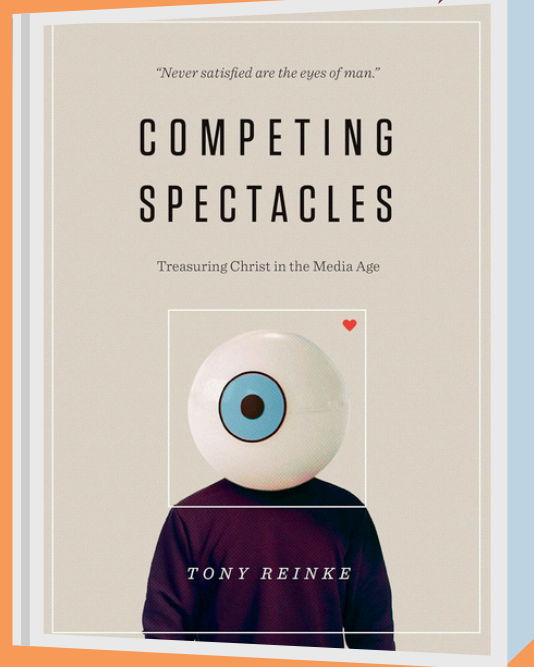

This short book is a powerful reminder of how our lives are shaped by the media we consume each day. From social media to movies, games, and much more, we are constantly bombarded by “competing spectacles” vying for our attention. Both parents and students will benefit from this assessment as it prompts us to ask, “How am I being conformed to this world through the spectacles it places before me?”

“This book is a theology of visual culture, a culture that is increasingly closing in around us... More intentionally, this book is a companion for Christians walking through digital detoxes, the now necessary periods of our lives when we voluntarily unplug from pop media, news media, and social media in order to de-screen our eyes and reorder our priorities.” (pp. 12–13)
