THOUGHTS ON THE JOURNEY

Today we celebrate our graduating seniors. These young people will soon head out into the world. Some will head to the workforce, some to the military, and some to college. Regardless of where they go, we know that there is a world waiting on them that will present a number of challenges. Some of these challenges will lead to success and some to failure. However, all of these challenges will make them stronger.

“As we consider the world that awaits them, we would do well to apply some of the advice we might give them. We too are in a daily struggle.”

As we consider the world that awaits them, we would do well to apply some of the advice we might give them. We too are in a daily struggle. The challenge to walk with the Lord is real. We face a number of temptations and difficulties that will throw us off track if we allow it.

So, we must be resilient. We must be focused on being the people God has called us to be.

Our text today will speak to some of the challenges we can expect to face. The reality is, difficulties are not a surprise, they are to be expected. It is through various challenges and difficulties that our faith is forged. By enduring difficulties, we grow in our faith and learn more about who our God is.

If you have been facing difficulties, especially related to your walk with Christ, I pray that today’s message will be an encouragement. I pray that through the study of the Word you can find the hope to press on. The challenges we face really can have a purpose in our lives. So, lean into the Lord, stay in the Word, and trust Him with the process.

Honored to be your pastor,

DARRELL
