THOUGHTS ON THE JOURNEY

In recent days there have been several hurricanes that have threatened the United States. Living on the Gulf Coast teaches us that we must always be prepared. It seems like yesterday that Hurricane Harvey came to visit Victoria. In a matter of a few days we were tasked with getting our property ready, making decisions as to whether or not we would ride out the storm, and getting things ready for what was to come.

Preparedness is a part of life. We not only have to be prepared for storms, but for any number of things that come. In today’s text, Peter is going to remind us that we must be prepared spiritually as well. Specifically, Peter tells us to be prepared for action. Christianity was never intended to be a passive commitment. Instead, we are to be actively engaged in the things God has called us to.

Today, we will learn several steps that we can take to help with this preparedness. As is the case with most things, it will take discipline. We cannot passively approach our walk with Christ but must take action if we hope to be faithful to His call. Laziness and distraction are the enemies of obedience.

Take time to ask yourself some honest questions this morning. Are you walking in holiness? Do you have a proper fear of God? Have you been obedient to the truth as you understand it? Do you do a good job of keeping things in eternal perspective? All of these are questions our text will address. All of these things deserve our attention.

I trust that God will speak to your heart this morning as we journey through 1 Peter 1:13-25. I hope that you will listen with ears to hear and a heart to obey. Let us not simply hear for the sake of knowledge, but instead for the purpose of obedience. As we determine to obey, we know that God will walk with us through whatever we face.

Honored to be your pastor,
