

Hi friends,

The Christmas season is officially here—and with it comes the music that fills our homes, our cars, and our memories. This Sunday we're kicking off a brand-new Christmas series called Christmas Playlist: The Songs that Set the Mood for the Season. Each week we'll look at a classic Christmas song and discover the deeper story and scriptural truth behind it. These songs have shaped generations—and they have something powerful to say to us today.

Week 1 begins this Sunday, December 7 at 10:30am, and we're starting with one of the most haunting and beautiful songs of the season: "O Come, O Come Emmanuel."

It's ancient. It's mysterious. And it's filled with a message we need right now—one of longing, hope, and the promise that God is with us in every season.

Whether you're feeling festive, overwhelmed, or somewhere in-between, this series is designed to help set your heart right for Christmas. Bring a friend, bring your family, and come ready to enter the story in a fresh way.

We can't wait to see you this Sunday at 10:30am!

Merry Christmas,
Pastor Shane
shane@dfmchurch.org

PS — I'm also excited to announce a new Ministry Initiative for DFMC this Sunday, which includes an update on our search for our next staff pastor. You'll hear all about it during the service, and you're invited to stay afterward for a brief Q&A time as well.