FREEDOM OF FORGIVENESS

Our ministry time in the Arkansas Women's Prison was rich as we shared the healing hand of Christ with these women. As we invited them to step in deeper, many responded to His invitation, both fresh commitments and seasoned believers alike.

Women in prison struggle with many issues, one of which is forgiving themselves. By nature, they bear the burden and carry their family. Not only do women deal with the guilt of their crime, they also deal with shame and condemnation because of what they've done to their children and family. Forgiveness seems like a distant dream. Their inability to forgive becomes a stumbling block and snare. Offense doesn't distinguish between what is justified or unreasonable, nor can it determine whether it's towards someone else or yourself.

July 25th - 27th
Montana Women's

If prisoners won't forgive, they wind up living out a double sentence- the correctional facility they've been sentenced to, as well as the lock down in their heart. It keeps them from moving forward. They will get stuck in the process of becoming Christ like. They will never be able to rise up from the ashes of failure to soar in their true identity. In fact, unless they move forward into a place of healing and transformation, rehabilitation will be minimal and temporary.

We told them, even though the crimes they've committed have torn their families apart, the very BEST thing they can do now FOR their loved ones is move forward and be CHANGED! Occupy the place in this world that God has assigned to them. Nothing can alter their identity; not their criminal actions, the legal system, or their sentences. Totally surrendered to Christ makes it possible to experience freedom even behind bars.

We have one more women's prison event coming up July 25-27th in Billings, Montana

NEEDED: Prayer Warriors

Those who will commit to partnering with us through prayer.

Many times we have experienced break through due to our prayer partners. These outreaches become explosive when prayer is the forerunner.

Would you be willing to pray for the greatest impact?
