

LIFE TRIVIA:

1. In Ezekiel 1, what creatures did Ezekiel see in his vision, and how many faces did each creature have?
2. Ezekiel describes wheels that move with the creatures. What was unique about the wheels?
3. In Ezekiel 2, God tells Ezekiel he is being sent to the Israelites who are described as what kind of people?
4. What was Ezekiel commanded to eat in Ezekiel 3, and what did it symbolize?
5. In Ezekiel 7, what does God declare about the end of Israel's sin and punishment?

His people would reap the consequences of their abominations. [Ezekiel 7:2-4]
 He was told to eat a scroll filled with God's words of lamentation and judgment. It symbolized receiving and internalizing God's message before speaking it to the people. [Ezekiel 3:1-3]
 God declares that the end has come upon the land—His wrath and judgment would be poured out and He would destroy the land and everything on it. [Ezekiel 7:9-10]
 God calls them a rebellious nation, stiff-hearted and stubborn, who had turned against Him. [Ezekiel 2:3-4]
 The wheels interlocked each other and could move in any direction without turning; they were full of eyes all around, symbolizing the all-seeing nature of God. [Ezekiel 1:13-18]
 13-18
 He saw four living creatures, each with four faces—that of a man, a lion, an ox, and an eagle. [Ezekiel 1:10]

RESTORE

WORD OF THE WEEK

The God Who Restores

There are seasons in life when it feels like things have been taken, broken, or lost along the way—our peace, our joy, or even our confidence. But the beautiful truth is that God is still in the business of restoration. He never leaves His children empty. When He restores, He doesn't just return things to what they were; He brings them back better, stronger, and overflowing with His goodness.

Restoration often begins when we place everything back in God's hands. It requires trust—a faith that says, "Lord, I believe You can breathe life into what looks lifeless." Sometimes what looks like an ending is really God preparing to rebuild. Just as He restored Job's life with double for his trouble, God is able to take the very areas of pain and turn them into testimonies of His power and faithfulness.

This is your reminder that nothing is beyond repair when God is involved. Broken relationships, lost opportunities, or seasons of discouragement can all be redeemed. He specializes in rebuilding what was torn down, healing what was wounded, and reviving what was left behind. The same hands that formed the heavens are still shaping your story with grace.

As we step into this new month, may your heart be open for God to restore everything the enemy tried to steal. Let this be a season where you see His hand at work in your home, your children, and your future. Trust that what's coming will be greater than what was lost—because our God doesn't just restore, He multiplies.
