WE BELIEVE

Welcome to Gateway's six-week, church-wide study, *We Believe, a journey through the core doctrines of the Christian faith, shaped by Phyllicia Masonheimer's Basics of Theology. Over these next weeks, our entire church family will walk together through sermons, small group discussions, and deeper-dive Sunday Night Seminar designed to help us understand what Christians have believed for centuries and why it matters today.

For many believers, the word theology can feel intimidating. Some worry it's too academic, some feel overwhelmed by unfamiliar terms, some fear disagreement, and some quietly assume it's for "experts" only. Yet Scripture reminds us that all believers are called to grow in their knowledge of God. Paul writes to Timothy, saying: "All Scripture is God-breathed and is useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting and training in righteousness..." (2 Timothy 3:16–17 NIV). Theology - what we believe about God - shapes every thought, decision, hope, and habit of our lives.

At Gateway, we believe that building a foundation in biblical doctrine is essential for every Christian's walk with Jesus. That doesn't mean every topic is simple or every question is easy to resolve, but it does mean theology is accessible, beautiful, and deeply practical. Our goal in this series is to give a clear, 10,000-foot view of the most important doctrines of the Christian faith, not so high that it feels irrelevant, and not so detailed that we lose the big picture.

Each week, we will explore a major theme: why theology matters, the trustworthiness of Scripture, the nature of God, the nature of humanity, the gift of salvation, and the calling to live out our faith. These doctrines are not just ideas for scholars or debates for classrooms; they shape the lives of everyday Christians, influence how we worship, and guide how we engage the world around us.

The church is made up of people: people seeking truth, hope, purpose, and transformation. And because what we believe about God touches every part of who we are, these teachings speak directly to the challenges and questions we all face. Doctrine leads to devotion, and knowing God more deeply fuels a life that reflects Him.

So, take a deep breath and lean in. Over these six weeks, we'll explore what Christians have believed for thousands of years, and why those truths still matter for the church and for each of us today.

Blessings,

Jason Smith
Lead Pastor

WEEK 1-JANUARY 25-31, 2026

WHY THEOLOGY MATTERS

SUNDAY MORNING

Worship at 9:30 or 11 AM to start off the church-wide series with a message about how theology affects each and every believer. Miss the sermon? Watch it here!

SMALL GROUPS

Read Introduction and What is Theology? (pp. 7-12).

Discuss

Phylcia writes that every person already has a theology, whether they realize it or not.

1. What beliefs or assumptions about God did you hold before intentionally studying Scripture?
2. How might personal experiences (family, church background, pain, comfort, politics) have shaped those beliefs?
3. Why is it dangerous to leave theology unchecked?
4. The book states clearly: “The goal of studying theology is not to prove us right... but intimacy with God.” Why do you think knowing true things about God leads to deeper love for him?

Keep studying with these options. Choose one or both - it's up to you!
