The Power of Priorities Pt. 3

This week's message, rooted in Matthew 6:33, urged us to intentionally re-center our lives around the Kingdom of God. The pastor used real-life stories, biblical metaphors, and practical illustrations—like jars filled with sand and rocks—to show how our lives quickly become overwhelmed when we prioritize the urgent over the eternal.

We were reminded that putting God first isn't just about scheduling church on Sunday; it's about a complete shift in perspective, purpose, and daily living. When we prioritize God's Kingdom—through prayer, sacrifice, obedience, and relationships—we open ourselves to the provision, peace, and purpose God longs to give us.

Seeking first the Kingdom transforms how we handle money, conflict, time, and calling. It prepares us for spiritual harvest, aligns our hearts with eternity, and deepens our impact in the world.
