

"I Love the People who God has called Me to."

There is nothing more rewarding than to see people hungry for the word of God. The man in black is one of the four chiefs over 400 Indian villages. He is a strong christian and is very influential in the decisions made in all of the villages. We were in an Indian village putting a roof on their church when he asked to talk to Dennis. They talked for 4 hours. He was not a christian at that time. He had so many questions. Dennis absolutely enjoyed unfolding the Bible and explaining all the things that kept him from accepting the Lord. I don't know if Dennis lead him to the Lord or not but he is a solid christian today. He does not live in that village but was visiting. When he heard Dennis was there he wanted to meet him and ask him some questions. What an honor to be able to share the gospel with a man of his stature. He is just a man hungry for the truth.

Ministry Needs

We are still a little short of purchasing a small truck.

The basic model is $32,000.00 I have $16500.00

During the conference two kids came with their mother. I usually give them jobs to do to keep them busy. When they were through cleaning up after the break we sat in the conference a little. They were playing with a red marker scribbling on a small piece of paper. I asked them to paint my nails with the marker. They were so excited. Funny how a little love and attention builds long lasting relationships. We reach all generations by building relationships with them. They all call me grandma and come to me when they are struggling. I love the people who God has called me to.

"a grandmother's love is like a warm embrace that lasts a lifetime."
