“Sharing the Peace of the Easter Resurrection”

As we step into the beautiful month of May, we are reminded of the blooming flowers, the warming sun, and the spirit of renewal that surrounds us. This month, we focus on the grace and tranquility that the Easter resurrection brings to our lives and how we can share this peace with those around us.

Finding Peace Within

Before we can share the peace of the Easter resurrection with others, it is crucial to find and nurture that peace within ourselves. This can be achieved through prayer, reflection, and gratitude. Spending time in personal devotion allows us to connect deeply with God's presence and experience the calming assurance that His love provides. As we cultivate this inner peace, we become better equipped to spread it to those around us.

Extending Peace to Others

Sharing the peace of the Easter resurrection involves extending kindness, compassion, and understanding to others. It means being a beacon of hope in times of distress and a source of comfort in moments of sorrow. Here are a few ways we can share this peace with those in our community:

- Acts of Kindness: Simple acts of kindness, such as helping a neighbor, volunteering at a local charity, or offering a listening ear to someone in need, can make a significant difference in someone's life.
- Words of Encouragement: Offering words of encouragement and positivity can uplift spirits and instill hope. Let us be mindful of the power of our words and strive to speak life and love into the hearts of others.
- Prayer and Support: Let us intercede for those who are struggling and offer them the peace that comes from knowing they are not alone.

As we embark on this journey of sharing the peace of the Easter resurrection, let us remember the words of Jesus in John 14:27, "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled and do not be afraid." May these words inspire us to be bearers of His peace, bringing light and hope to those around us.

In closing, let us recommit ourselves to living out the message of Easter every day. By sharing the peace of the resurrection, we can make a meaningful impact in our communities and honor the profound gift of Christ's love. May this month of May be filled with blessings, joy, and the enduring peace of our Savior.

God's Blessings,

Pastor Nyck Greig

Sunday Morning Bible Study

“The Mission of Jesus”

Sundays 9:15am - 10:15am

It's easy to think of the Bible as a collection of short stories, but each one makes up a greater story – one story of a God who created the universe and entrusted it to His human partners to care for it. They were unfaithful, and it fell back into chaos and sin. But God didn't give up on His creation. He decided to redeem it, preparing the way through His covenant with Israel and finally by sending His son, Jesus, to become the cornerstone of it all through His life, death, resurrection, and ascension. What would this mean for a people oppressed by the Roman Empire, and what does it mean for believers today? Follow the rabbi through the world of Jesus, hiking through the Galilee region, exploring the ruins of Rome, and kneeling on the stones of the Temple Mount in Jerusalem as you discover how the gospel of Jesus confronts the gospel of Imperial Rome.

Family Blessings Breakfast

We were thrilled to welcome parents and special adults to our Family Blessings Breakfast—a heartwarming morning filled with delicious food, meaningful projects, and a special chapel time. It was a wonderful opportunity for families to connect, share thoughtful conversations, and spend quality time together. It was great to have Pastor Dennis Krueger back to lead us in chapel on our theme of Endure, based on Hebrews 12:1-3, “Therefore, since we are surrounded by such a great cloud of witnesses, let us throw off everything that hinders and the sin that so easily entangles. And let us run with perseverance the race marked out for us, fixing our eyes on Jesus, the pioneer and perfecter of faith. For the joy set before him he endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God. Consider him who endured such opposition from sinners, so that you will not grow weary and lose heart.” We are so thankful for the chance to bond with our school families and for the strong partnership we share with parents as we help our students Learn, Grow, and Serve in the name of Jesus.

Hope Willert's Mission Work in Zambia March Update

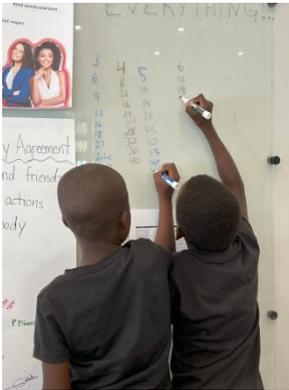

Ministry

Hello!

We have been working hard this month in school as we are preparing for our students to leave for term break in two weeks. Here in Zambia, most schools have three terms each year, each of which are three months long. After each term the students have three to five weeks off of school until the next term begins. So, April 10th is our last day of the first term this year and we are all very ready for a break - teachers and students alike!

Here are a couple of pictures from school this month, including a picture of our whole school staff! I love working with these ladies so much.

This month I was also able to participate in a few other exciting ministry opportunities. At the beginning of the month a Zambian youth ministry called Teen Street came to Poëtice and ran a training for all of the staff members who work with youth. It was an incredible opportunity to be able to learn about topics such as how to help and connect with students who have experienced trauma, ways to engage youth as a small group leader, and how to form stronger relationships with your youth. (The first picture from below is from this training.)

I was also able to participate in a gathering of many people who prayed for our Recreation Park that we have at Poëtice as it is officially opening. We all gathered to play sports and afterwards we all laid our hands on the ground and prayed that God would use this space to connect with people from all across Choma and that He would use it to bring people to Him. It was a surreal moment to know that I was there for the start of something that I know God will bless and work through in ways that we don't yet know.

Life Update

We have officially moved into our house! YAY! It has been a journey figuring out lots of these details, but we are so happy to be living in a house of our own now. We are taking things one step at a time right now as none of us have so much money, so we are furnishing the house a little bit at a time. Currently our only piece of furniture is this table, which, as you can tell, we are very happy about - we spent the first two weeks in the house eating on the floor, so this was a major upgrade! None of us can afford a car yet, either, so I either walk or bike to work every day. While this has all been a big change, we are so thankful to have our own space now.

To be quite honest, this past month I have just felt pretty exhausted. I have felt like most mornings when I wake up, I really just want to go back to sleep. I feel like the initial spark and excitement of "Oh my gosh, I just moved to Zambia!" is gone and this has become my normal life. It has felt kind of like I have lost my joy, and it was really a struggle for me.

Then, about two weeks ago, as I was walking back from house church, I began to notice things - I saw a tree that I walk past every day that is absolutely marvelous with its huge, swirling trunk and its wide branches that provide such comforting shade from the Zambian sun. I noticed a field of sunflowers and stopped to look at them. As I did this, I had the revelation that I have just been going through the motions for the past month - wake up, get through school, and then go home exhausted. I wasn't seeing the beauty the God has placed all over in each day of my life - the delicious meal, the calm Saturday morning with a visit from a neighborhood cat, or a visit from a happy little chameleon. I realized that there are so many little blessings that God has been giving me that I have simply been passing by because I am so focused on just getting through the day. I realized that I need to work on slowing down and living in the moment rather than just going through the motions. This has been such a valuable revelation and has really helped me to live this life that God has given me to the fullest.

Prayer Requests

- Please pray for the teachers as we finish out the last two weeks of this term; pray that God would give us strength, energy, and patience. And also pray for the students, that God would give them the ability to continue to work hard through the end of the term.
- Pray that God would continue to bring back my joy and help me to slow down and notice all of the blessings that he has given me.

Thank you all so much for your prayers and support! None of this would be possible without each one of you. Feel free to email me if you have any questions, comments, or just want to chat!

Blessings,

Hope Willert

STEPHEN MINISTRY DEVOTION

Ministry from Afar

When we were torn away from you for a short time (in person, not in thought), out of our intense longing we made every effort to see you. For we wanted to come to you—certainly I, Paul, did, again and again.

1 Thessalonians 2:17–18a

Stephen Ministry is, by nature, in-person care. When your care receiver is hurting, there is no substitute for being fully present with him or her—physically, mentally, emotionally, and spiritually. Likewise, many other parts of a congregation’s ministry, such as coming together to worship, are also typically done in person.

During this time of social distancing, though, being physically present with others isn’t possible. To preserve the safety of those they serve, churches everywhere—and the Stephen Ministry at these churches—are having to make some challenging adjustments, ministering from afar much more than usual.

The Example of Paul

The Apostle Paul often needed to minister over a distance as well, which he did through his many letters to scattered groups of Christians. Through these letters, we can gain insight into how Paul related to believers when he couldn’t actually be with them.

Most scholars believe that Paul’s earliest surviving letter is the one we know as 1 Thessalonians. This letter demonstrates some important principles to keep in mind in this challenging time.

First, Paul’s ministry was built on in-person relationships. Because of his prior, face-to-face ministry, Paul could tell the Thessalonians, “We loved you so much that we were delighted to share with you not only the gospel of God but our lives as well” (2:8a). These relationships were built on Christ-centered love and compassion. That same foundation helps us keep our relationships strong when, for a time, we can’t meet face to face.

Second, we learn from 1 Thessalonians that ministering from afar was not Paul’s first choice. He says, “When we were torn away from you for a short time (in person, not in thought), out of our intense longing we made every effort to see you. For we wanted to come to you—certainly I, Paul, did, again and again” (2:17–18a). We can take comfort in knowing that Paul, too, found it challenging to be apart from those he cared for. But when it became necessary to minister over distance, he did so wholeheartedly, using the tools he had to address this growing church’s needs. For us, although caring from afar may not be ideal, we can accomplish real ministry using the tools available to us.

Third, while Paul’s letters met real needs, he always looked forward to meeting his fellow believers again. He wrote 1 Thessalonians, in part, to comfort the church following the deaths of some in the faith community (4:13–14). Even as he offered that care, though, he expressed his eagerness for the day he could support them in person: “Night and day we pray most earnestly that we may see you again and supply what is lacking in your faith” (3:10). We, too, can look ahead to the time we will meet our care receivers in person once more.

In Anticipation of Coming Together Again

If Paul were here today, we can only imagine how he might make use of the devices and apps we have now, just as he made extensive use of letters in his own time. Of course, these tools wouldn’t be a replacement for his in-person ministry, but they could still serve as a powerful means of ministry between visits—or at times when visits just weren’t an option.

Likewise, we can be grateful for the technologies we have today that enable us to stay connected with our care receivers when we are not able to be physically present with them. And we can seek to use those tools in the best ways possible, anticipating the time when we can resume our in-person care.

Here's a prayer we can all join in saying during this time.

Prayer

Lord God, the Scriptures say that when we call, you answer. You are always there for us, hearing and responding to every thought and every need. Thank you for the privilege and power of providing in-person care, as well as for ways to stay connected when we can't be physically present. Guide us during this unique time, helping us exercise wisdom and discernment in using the communication tools available today. Amen.
